Seco Mundo. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Perfect Paperback. 300 pages. Dimensions: 8.5in. x 5.5in. x 0.6in. The Monkey Drowns is the second in a series depicting the life of a military wife. The first book, The Scorpion Stings tells of a small town, nave girl who marries a career Army officer, moves twelve times in five years and then finds herself in primitive Iran of the 1960s. The Monkey Drowns carries the story further to when the family moves from Iran back to their hometown, Tucson, Arizona. The Army sends her husband to the University of Arizona for his Masters Degree in Industrial Management. After graduation her husband is sent to Korea and then back to the States for further training in order to go to Viet Nam. During these long absences, our heroine carries on the familys duties, taking care of three children, managing finances and the usual household jobs. The 60s was a time of great upheaval; chaos was everywhere with the assassinations of John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King and Robert Kennedy. Anti-war protestors were burning draft cards and shutting down universities and disrupting the Democratic convention in Chicago. It was a difficult time for wives if the man of the house was in Viet Nam. Upon the joyous return of her husband, the family again moves several times, finally ending up in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas where he is a student in Command and General Staff College. Upon completion of the year-long school, the family is once again sent to Iran where her husband is an advisor to the Shah of Iran. The year is 1970 and the change in Tehran is remarkable. The Shah has been working hard to drag the country from the seventh century into the 20th century. As he brings in more Westerners to help...
